1 Affected product versions

Product name	SW version	Successor product	SW version
TOBY-L210-62S	16.05 A01.02	TOBY-L210-65S	16.05 A01.03
MPC1-L210-60S	09.94 A01.01	MPC1-L210-63S	09.94 A01.02

2 Reason for discontinuation

The affected product versions use a power amplifier for LTE band 20 which is in end-of-life. Due to this, the product versions will no longer be supportable by u-blox. The successor products TOBY-L210-65S and MPC1-L210-63S use the same software baseline and hardware as the affected products, with exception that band 20 is no longer supported. (The power amplifier for band 20 has been removed from the hardware, and the software does not support it). All active customers are advised to move to the corresponding successor product as soon as possible.

3 Customer impact and recommended action

- Each successor product is pin-to-pin compatible with its predecessor.
- The end-of-life product cannot be upgraded with FW intended for the successor product.
- Putting successor products into use does not require re-certification, and the GITEKI certification number remains unchanged. Only paper work is required.
- Each successor product includes the same feature set as its predecessor (with exception of band 20).
- By the time the successor products are available, they will have GITEKI and SoftBank certifications.
